

How Are You Getting By?

Sustainable Practices from the Hungarian Puszta to the American West

Panelists in this roundtable discussion will provide a comparative view of traditional and contemporary systems of sustainability that are being successfully used in their respective areas. Topics will include grassland composition and resource management; livestock breeding, management and marketing; and development of new income streams such as tourism. The roundtable discussion will bring to light common ground and differences between U.S. and Hungarian livestock-raising communities.

Participants include Agnes Kemecei, Manager, Heritage Breed Animal Park, Hortobágy Non-Profit; Harvey and Tom Barnes, ranchers, Jiggs, Nevada; and Agee Smith and McKenzie and Jason Molsbee, Cottonwood Ranch, O'Neil Basin, Nevada. Discussion facilitated by Gareth Fisher, graduate student in Range Management at U.C. Berkeley.

Saturday, January 29

10:45 a.m. – 12:15 p.m.

Elko Convention & Visitors Authority – Turquoise Room
700 Moren Way Elko, Nevada

Free Admission!

Lunch and follow-up conversation (lunch available with donation)
12:30-1:30 p.m. Cedar Room

For more information please contact: Leta Collord at (775) 738-9826